Creating a Less Toxic Home with Essential Oils

On a daily basis, we are exposed to more than 300 chemicals that we use on our skin or breathe into our brains. Often the products we are using in our homes are full of poisons of which we are unaware. Join us at the Sarlin Branch Library in Liberty on Thursday, December 7 at 5:30pm as we discuss the safety of cleaning and personal care items in your home, which ingredients to stay away from, and practical ways to use essential oils to replace many toxins!

This program is free and all are welcome. For more information, call the library at 853-5805.
