The background of the entire image is a dark, moody photograph. At the top, an open book is visible, with text from two pages. The left page discusses wine-making in France, mentioning 'everyday wines', 'small farms', and 'gnarled vines'. The right page discusses geology, mentioning 'Paris basin', 'pyroclastic deposits', and 'natural gas'. In the foreground, a hand is holding a magnifying glass over the book. To the left, there are some dried, light-colored flowers or branches. The overall aesthetic is literary and focused on reading.
