Roxy Finds Forever Home

Adoption Fee Waived for First 50 Animals at Upstate SPCA

(November 1, 2017 – Pickens County, South Carolina) The beginning of many forever home connections happened today! The Upstate SPCA (Saving Pickens County Animals) adopted out its first animal creating a special moment for the family and the abandoned puppy.

A family was heartbroken after someone stole their beloved dog. Hayley Oswald said, “After weeks of being unable to find the dog, they gave up and gave in to the idea of adopting a pet from the Upstate SPCA in Pickens County.” She searched the Upstate SPCA website and found a 6 month Doberman Pinscher puppy and drove from Williamston to pick up their new fur baby! She said, “I’ve adopted before and was prepared to pay at the end of the visit, when they said the new puppy was part of a special promotion from the Upstate SPCA!”

Your loving pet is waiting for you at the Upstate SPCA in Pickens County. All you have to do is find the right pet, and take him home. It’s that easy and free for families of the first 50 animals adopted from the shelter.

Because so many animals need homes, we are waiving the pet adoption fee for the first 50 animals as we expand our services in the county. Our pets have been vaccinated, spayed and neutered and now need a good home. You can also help Upstate SPCA animals in so many ways.

Adopt, volunteer, donate or organize a fundraiser for your Upstate SPCA today! Take a look at the Cat Cafes coming soon to the public library.

Hayley Oswell and her teenaged daughter are available to interview Friday afternoon (after 5pm) in Williamston, SC.
